

HOPU 2026 Summer Internship Program

The 2026 Summer Analyst Program is designed to recruit, train, and develop a talented group of young investment professionals who will grow with HOPU over the long term. The program seeks high-caliber undergraduate students from top universities worldwide and offers a 10-week internship opportunity during their penultimate or final year of study. Postgraduate and PhD students are also encouraged to apply. Interns who demonstrate exceptional performance may be offered a full-time Analyst position with the firm upon completion of their internship. Successful interns will become an integral part of our investment team, collaborating closely with experienced investment professionals.

Location: Beijing or Hong Kong

The intern will be primarily responsible for

- Conduct market research on targeted sectors and jurisdictions for investment opportunities.
- Perform detailed financial modeling, analysis, and due diligence to assess acquisitions, asset management strategies, and repositioning initiatives across the Asia Pacific region.
- Prepare investor reports, presentations, and papers.
- Monitor and analyze market trends, developments, and transactions.
- Assist with general coordination and other administrative tasks.

Requirements

- Available for a minimum of 3 months; full-time availability is preferred, though part-time candidates will be considered if they can commit to at least 4 full days per week.
- Exceptional academic performance.
- Strong financial modeling skills, with excellent research and analytical abilities.
- Prior internship experience at top-tier investment management firms, investment banking, or management consulting is preferred.
- Independent thinker with the ability to collaborate effectively within a team environment.
